GLAD IT'S ALL OVER

Regardless of what views you may have held as to the guilt or the innocence of Bruno Hauptmann, surely all must be relieved to see some end brought to the case.

The ends of social security can never be dragging a case out as long as this one was. Everyone concerned was deserving of a decision one way or the other.

PLAY FAIR

LIFE DEMANDS THAT 'WE PLAY FAIR WITH EACH OTHER SO AS TO RECEIVE the greatest benefit out of living. Before playing fair with others we must first play fair with ourselves. We live with ourselves twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week and as we live those happy, or sad moments, as the case may be, our very souls and bodies portray our true selves to our associates. Nature in its own way is pure, clean and unstained. Nature plays fair but it also demands its "pound of flesh" from those who are unfair to it. We as human beings should pattern our ways after those of our greatest instructor, NATURE. live clean, play fair, and do those simple but honest things in life...things with fairness, honor and worthiness attached to them. An athlete soon learns to play fair in order that he may compete with the stiffest competition. A player who resorts to foul play is a target for the judges, his playmates and his audience as well. He soon learns theses a reward awaiting him for his fair play. Many times our greatest instructors come from the juvenile class. Children understand human nature better than adults and if we adults are willing to be frank with ourselves we will be only too glad to admit it. They teach us many things by their simple little actions. They abide by the code of "fair play" in all they do. Picture a marble game between boys and one of those participants resorting to unfair methods in attempting to accumulate marbles by foul methods. He is soon branded a "cheat" and ostracised by his little friends who desire to call him their pal but cannot because he never learned to play fair. The sandlot baseball game between boys brings out many interesting facts. Those nine individuals work together as a team to win fairly at their game. They resort to teamwork to attain a goal, win or lose in a sportsmanlike way. Nine individuals working together as one... playing fair with themselves and with each other.... one for all and all for one....a fair proposition to each. The lower animals of the animal kingdom have always played a game of fairness. We must not think of the fact, "survival of the fittest" as being an unfair arrangement in their kingdom. It is because of that policy that certain species of animals have been capable of holding their dominating place in their kingdom. Animals lower than man have always played fair with each other without malice and broken hearts. Why is it then, man, the highest developed animal of all the animal kingdom, has not learned to play fair? He owes it to himself and to his associates to play fair in all that he does and in playing fair with all he is rewarded with endless happiness. Learn it (to play fair) and love it and be happy always. Pattern our lives after our greatest teachers of life...those enumerated above.

Nervous, Weak Woman Soon All Right

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Cora Sanders, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would finally go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt works better. I gave Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right."

CARDUI

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Museum Here

The grade junior leagues of the Appomattox high school has started a Civil War Museum. The pupils have made a worthwhile contribution such as shells, grape shot and parts of cannon balls, belt buckles and buttons from old uniforms that were found on the battlefields here.

A replica of Joe Sweene's famous belt has also been added to the collection. A number of pictures are also included including those of Lee and Grant. A natural arts museum is also been started.

STAMP COLLECTORS

Stamp collectors like to get hold of letters bearing the dateline of Appomattox on APRIL 9, the Surrender date. Postmaster E. LeRoy Smith received nearly 200 letters from stamp collectors this week to be canceled here today.

Eye Witness Account Of The Surrender Here

BY GEORGE T. PEERS

(Editor's Note: The following account of the Surrender here at Appomattox was written by the late Hon. George T. Peers. He lived at the Old Court House and was clerk of the county court and actually saw the events of which he wrote. We therefore publish his account as the truth about what happened here in April 1865.)

On Thursday, April 6th, (which was our county court day, with a large crowd attending court) many refugees from Richmond were passing through, amongst them Governor William Smith, who addressed the crowd in a short speech from the hotel porch. Among them also were Major Donwell's race horses.

The procession of refugeeh and straggling soldiers was kept up through Friday, the 7th and Saturday morning.

On the afternoon of that day (Saturday the 8th) several batteries of artillery, (I do not know how many, it seemed quite a cavalcade of cannon and caisons to me) passed through the village going towards Lynchburg. Not very long afterwards we saw the smoke and flames of the burning depot and government store houses at Appomattox depot. Soon after we heard the rear of cannon and rattle of musketry, and knew that come of Grants army had coming up the railroad gotten in front of Lee and the fight was on. It was Sheridan's cavalry attacking the artillery in Cyrus' old field. Some of the artillery was captured and some of it escaped from them. About dark the advance of Lee's cavalry came up to the court house and halted in and near my yard.

Learning of the force in front of them and hearing of the fight out near the depot, a picket was sent out and and stationed on the hill west of the court house, while another picket line dismounted was formed below my house, facing the road from Walkers' Church and Evergreen.

About 8 o'clock when General Ransom, who was in command there was in my kitchen eating something he had prepared; rapid firing the clatter of hoofs and the rattle of sabers was heard coming down the hill from the west. It was the 15th New York cavalry; or a part of it, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Root, driving in the squad of pickets from the hill. The picket line below my house and other cavalrymen near, dismounted were quickly formed between the road just below my house, who fired into the advancing Federals, checked and drove them back.

Two men were killed just west of the court house, one Captain Macon of Richmond; the other a Federal soldier; and two below my house, one a sergeant in Company I, 15th New York cavalry, who gave me his name before he died, but I have forgotten it.

Col. Root was also killed by a single soldier, who hid himself behind the large white oak tree near Wm. Roper's shop, and fired at him as he rode by in advance of his column, the ball passing through his neck and cutting the carotid arteries.

On Sunday morning, April 9th, about light the cavalry commenced coming through the village going west, and soon the infantry was brought up and formed in line from the top of the hill near Tibbs house, down the hill and across the road just west of the village, to a point in the field south of it near Plain Run.

Sheridan's corps of cavalry had been marshalled early and were advancing on the court house, when they were met by this column, and

Peace is greater than War. And Appomattox as the scene of the Peace of 1865 should be Restored and made one of the great landmarks of America. Let's direct the attention of the World to PEACE rather than to WAR.... to the shrines of Peace instead of to the slaughter houses of War.... and if we do that the world will be on the road to the day when nations will "Study War No More."
